

Vodafone, One Kingdom Street, PaddingtonCentral

On foot

From Paddington Station

Head in the opposite direction to the mainline station concourse and you'll see a footbridge about 100 metres away, which is accessible from a number of the platforms (platform 8 being one of them). Go up the steps, turn right (left if coming from the Hammersmith & City tube line) and continue along the walkway following the PaddingtonCentral signs. These will lead you left alongside a towpath with the canal on your right. At Starbucks, turn left between two large buildings into Sheldon Square. Head straight on, passing the main PaddingtonCentral grass amphitheatre and shops on your right-hand side. Keep going until you reach Kingdom Street. Vodafone is the large blue building half-way along on your left.

From Bishop's Bridge

Sheldon Square and Kingdom Street can be accessed directly from Bishop's Bridge by following the signs to PaddingtonCentral.

From Little Venice

Walk towards Paddington Station along the towpath following the PaddingtonCentral signs.

From Harrow Road

Walk across the new pedestrian bridge alongside the Porteus Road subway and the Travis Perkins Yard into the PaddingtonCentral development, following the signs.

By car or taxi

One of the closest public car parks is the NCP at Colonnades, Porchester Terrace. There is also a nearby Apcoa car park in Bishop's Bridge Road. Taxi access to PaddingtonCentral is directly off Bishop's Bridge on Bishop's Bridge Road. Vodafone has a small number of spaces in the private PaddingtonCentral underground car park, which can be booked in advance for visitors through our concierge.
